Disclaimer

Disclaimer: Any email or telephone contact is to be used exclusively for educational purposes. It does not comprise an agreement to establish a therapeutic relationship. Neither telephone/email consultation nor educational materials are viable substitutes for clinical assessment or other services. The confidentiality of email cannot be guaranteed, and caution should be taken in transmitting any personal information in this manner.

Website information, telephone or internet contact or consultation is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent disease or illness (including mental health issues). These forms of information sharing are not meant to substitute for the advice of a marital counselor or mental health professional. We do not make any warranties regarding the use of the information received.

Any information available through consultation or website use is based on the professional experience of Dr. Ferguson in working with the issues discussed. Any educational suggestions are based on this experience rather than any knowledge or insight into your own (or your significant others') particular issues, problems, or dynamics. No warranties are made regarding their appropriateness of the information for your issues, or the manner in which you use this information. Consumers of any of the above delivery forms of information are entirely responsible for the use they make of this information.

I have read the above Disclaimer and acknowledge that I understand these limits and agree to abide by these limits in consulting with Dr. Ferguson.
